Community Stakeholders with a Rich History of Shelltown

Please come and join us in a conversation about the Public Art component of Southcrest Trails Park Development. This meeting will engage community stakeholders in a dialogue with artists Ingram Ober and Marisol Rendón as they gather your stories and insights about the history, needs, and future vision for your neighborhood.

Ingram and Marisol specifically wish to learn about:

- The history and character of your neighborhood
- The demographic make-up of your neighborhood
- Notable local folks and their personal histories
- Legends, folklore and anecdotes about your neighborhood
- What your neighborhood is most known for
- Prominent images, geography or landmarks in your neighborhood
- Anything else you think is important!

Please use the back of this sheet to jot down your ideas and notes for the artists. They will collect your notes and use them for reference in the process of designing the artwork.

If you'd like to take this sheet home and give it some thought, the artists will be accepting input through Friday, September 16, 2011, 4:00 p.m.

You can email your notes to Nigel Brookes, Arts Management Specialist for the City of San Diego Commission for Arts and Culture (nbrookes@sandiego.gov) and he will forward them to the artists. Please title such email suggestions "Southcrest Trails Art" in the subject line.
